

Modification and Design of Living Spaces for Older Adults

(See also Assistive Technology, Senior Housing Options, Falls and Hip Fractures, and Nursing Home Notes)

Every public opinion survey of older adults indicates that the vast majority desire to remain in their own home as long as possible. For some, the decision to leave is based on lifestyle changes – to move to a location with a different climate or to an active retirement community. For others, the decision to move is based on new limitations in mobility created by a physical or health-related condition. In many cases, independent living can be sustained in one's current residence through design modifications and the addition of home safety appliances and appurtenances.
